"Anyone can take the helm when the seas are calm"

Pubilius Syrus

James Evanow's book, "Wisdom from the Sea", takes his many years of maritime experience and translates them into today's business world. After spending years as a trainer of emotional intelligence, Captain James realized how his experiences and the responsibilities of bringing his crew through tight situations had a direct correlation with many of his clients that are in a position of leadership - such as CEO's, managers, supervisors, and even coaches. This book is a great read and training tool for anyone in a leadership or team building role.
